

Airtime

In wifi networks, airtime is the time spent transmitting and receiving data.

Devices with a slower transmission rate need longer time to transmit a set data volume than devices with a higher transmission rate. This means that airtime is not a reliable measure of how much data has been transmitted.

From:

<https://docs.intenogroup.com/glossary/> - Inteno Glossary

Permanent link:

<https://docs.intenogroup.com/glossary/a/airtime>

Last update: 2018/08/10 18:16